EURO STOXX 600 WINNERS

In 2018 the Stoxx 600 recorded a loss of around 14%.

But price trends dispersion has been huge as usual.

The top 100 performing stocks of this universe posted on average a gain of 13% for the year.

While the bottom 100 performers generated an average loss of 44%.

Superior performance on a consistent basis starts with an accurate reading of medium –to-long term price trends. Those trends that last for a few quarters and make the difference on yearly returns.

Capturing trends is the essence of successful investing.

Trendrating developed a proprietary methodology for rating trends , where A and B identify bull trends and C and D signal bear markets across individual securities.

C and D ratings can be used to either exit or reduce holdings , limiting damages and filling a critical gap in the standard risk management processes.

A and B ratings can be used to validate investment ideas as well as spot opportunities of potential big gainers.
